NIGERIA: -

The world is fast evolving into a cycle of technology which is advancing every day. This is so because of the advent of the Internet, coupled with social media packages and other information technological applications which has also made access to information easier.

We live in a world where even financial institutions put customers account details within their reach to the extent of banking online, which has been the order of the day; this is visible with technological inventions with which people operate confidentially.

For these aforementioned reasons, the Aptech computer education centre is fully back to start operations in Ibadan, Oyo state.

This was disclosed to CEOAfrica in a chat with its set man, Engr. Wole Agbaje, who stated that Aptech is back in Ibadan, the largest city in West Africa, due to the yearnings of students, graduates who want to pursue studies in information technology and become computer experts.

He assured the people of Ibadan of a convenient environment for learning and assistance to become a technological expert.

He also disclosed that Aptech offers a degree programme for students whereby 2 years would be spent in Nigeria and the remaining two years would be spent in the United Kingdom.

The set man also said that Aptech certification will provide Jobs across the globe.

Aptech Ltd. was founded in 1986 on the principle of enhancing education and unleashing the potential of each student. Today, it has presence in 40 countries spread across five continents, to train students and produce several million job-ready professionals who get absorbed by the best companies.

Relying on the most contemporary syllabus, evolved training pedagogy and wide spread reach, Aptech sets the pace in training technology oriented people.

With over 3 decades of expertise, Aptech has received many accolades for its quality service which includes; Pioneer in Skilling Africa award by ASSOCHAM in 2016, it's Vietnam branch won the ICT Gold Medal for the 14th consecutive year, 2003-2006, its Kazakhstan branch won the best training centre of computer technologies and foreign languages at the National Recognition 2016 awards, and its branch in Kampala was awarded the best information Technology Training School of the year from 2013 to 2015.

The set man urged youths to join global family of Aptech.
